AFFIDAVIT OF KIM AYOTTE
(Sworn February 13, 2022)

I, KIM AYOTTE, of the City of Ottawa, in the Province of Ontario, MAKE OATH AND SAY:

1. I am the General Manager of the City of Ottawa’s Emergency and Protective Services (“EPS”) Department, and as such, I have personal knowledge of the matters hereinafter deposed to. Where I specify that my knowledge is based on the information of others, I verily believe this information to be true.

Background of My Position and Role

2. I have held my current position since November 15, 2021. In my position, I oversee a number of units, including the City of Ottawa’s (the “City”) Paramedic Service, By-law & Regulatory Services, Fire Service, and Security and Emergency Management. My office and staff work closely within the EPS Department, and also with other City units, including Ottawa Public Health, Building Code Services, Community and Social Services, as well as with external agencies, including the Ottawa Police Service.

3. Prior to my current position, I served as the Chief of the Fire Service from August 31, 2018 to November 15, 2021.

4. Since January 28, 2022, a demonstration has been going on in the City of Ottawa, which the participants refer to as the “Freedom Convoy” (the “Demonstration”). I have been overseeing EPS's response and involvement in the ongoing demonstration (the "Demonstration") since it began. The Mayor of the City of Ottawa declared an emergency in relation to the Demonstration on February 6, 2022, and the Province of Ontario declared an emergency on February 11, 2022 relating to the Demonstration and other events across Ontario. In furtherance to the City's response to the emergency, given my position, I am a lead member of the City's Emergency Operations Control Group.

5. EPS is working closely with the Ottawa Police Services (the "OPS") in their response to the Demonstration.

The Demonstrators are Breaching City By-laws

6. Participants in the Demonstration are located at different areas in the city; however, the heaviest concentration of trucks and vehicles is in the downtown core, in an area that the city has called the "Demonstration zone". The Demonstration has caused disruption across the city, including at RCGT Park located at 302 Coventry Road, 1500 Bronson Avenue, and various highways and walkways within the municipal boundaries. I verily believe that these actions unreasonably interfere with the public's interest and are causing public safety issues.

7. The main way the participants are demonstrating is by parking transport trucks and other vehicles on city streets to block traffic. To support the parked transport trucks and other demonstrators, an organized network of services has cropped up. The services demonstrators are providing include fuel supplies to the vehicles, as well as food and beverage supplies including barbequing and open fires to heat food. Other services and structures have been brought to the demonstration including a stage for live music, a disc jockey for dance parties, an inflatable bouncy castle, inflatable slides, and hot tubs.

8. All of these activities violate one or more of the City's by-laws as follows.

Violations of Specific By-laws

9. I have attended at various sites in the downtown core and I have observed, and been advised by operational staff in By-law & Regulatory Services and Fire Services and believe that many trucks and other vehicles idling in the downtown core and surrounding neighbourhoods, which is contrary to section 2 of the Idling Control By-law, By-law No. 2007-266. “Idle” is defined in By-law No. 2007-266 as “the operation of the engine of a vehicle while the vehicle is not in motion and not being used to operate auxiliary equipment that is essential to the basic function of the vehicle, and “idling” has a corresponding meaning. Attached at tab 3 to this application record is a copy of By-law 2007-266.

10. Attached as Exhibit “A” are photos taken from CCTV footage of the intersection of Wellington Street and Metcalfe Street in the downtown core, showing the location, date, and time. I have personally been monitoring the CCTV footage of the downtown core throughout the course of the Demonstration out of concern for public safety and the ability of first responders and other city services to provide emergency and other services to the downtown and across the city. I have observed vehicles idling for extended periods of time, beyond what is permitted under By-law 2007-266.

11. I have observed, and verily believe, that participants in the Demonstration are living in and/or around their parked vehicles. I have observed open air fires throughout the city, in contravention of the Open Air Fire By-law, By-law No. 2004-163, and thereby posing a risk to public safety of the residents of the City. Attached as tab 4 to this application record is a copy of By-law 2004-163.

12. Attached as Exhibit “B” are photos of various fuel depots located at RCGT Park taken by employees of the City’s Fire Support Unit.

13. I have observed various temporary structures, such as tents and lean-to shelters, which have been erected on the roadways in downtown Ottawa, and at RCGT Park, in contravention of the Use and Care of Roads By-law, By-law No. 2003-498. Attached as tab 5 to this application record is a copy of By-law 2003-498.

14. The demonstrators have also built a stage, performed concerts, set up a jumbotron and erected tents and other structures on City streets. A hot tub has also been set up in the middle of Wellington Street. Attached as Exhibit “C” is a copy of a Toronto Star article dated Saturday, February 12, 2022, outlining the actions of the demonstrators.

15. Further, I have been advised by the City's Fire Support Unit (the "FSU"), and verily believe, that the City Fire Services have responded to open air fires as part of the Demonstration that were lit without the proper permits, which is contrary to section 3 of By-law 2004-163. Attached as Exhibit "D" are photos of stockpiled fuel, and an open fire at Confederation Park, taken by an employee of the FSU.

16. I have been advised by the FSU that no fire permits have been issued in relation to the Demonstration. I have further been advised that, besides not having permits, these fires have not been lit in compliance with section 6 of By-law 2004-163 and present immediate safety concerns.

17. The FSU has received numerous calls reporting violations of the Open Fire By-Law. Attached as Exhibit "E" is a copy of the by-law call logs for fires from February 4, 2022, to February 12, 2022.

18. Further, I have been advised by the FSU that they have responded to incidents of fireworks being discharged in the downtown core in violation of section 5 of the Fireworks By-law, By-law 2003-237. Attached as tab 6 of this application record is a copy of By-law 2003-237.

19. Attached as Exhibit "F" are photos of fireworks being ignited on February 5, 2022, at the intersection of Metcalfe Street and Wellington Street in the City of Ottawa. These images were captured from CCTV at the intersection. The unregulated discharge of fireworks in the downtown where large crowds are present presents an immediate public safety concern for personal injuries, and damage to property.

20. The demonstrators' actions are interfering with the City's ability to maintain the roads, perform snow removal, conduct traffic enforcement, enforce by-laws, provide public transit and perform waste removal. This is further contributing to ongoing public safety issues.

21. The demonstrators have caused a significant increase in noise in the City and in doing so contravened a number of provisions of the Noise By-law, By-law 2017-255, including idling motor vehicles, honking vehicles, use of air horns and limits on sound reproduction or amplification devices. Attached as tab 7 to this application record is a copy of By-law 2017-255.

Unreasonable Strain on the City's Resources

22. The activities of the demonstrators have placed an unreasonable demand on the City's staff and resources. The City had been inundated with complaints and calls from its residents to such an extent that it has not been able to effectively respond to the sheer volume of calls and complaints precipitated by the actions of the demonstrators.

23. City By-law officers have been told by the OPS not to enter the Demonstration zone to issue tickets for by-law infractions, due to concerns for the safety of the by-law officers. I have also personally advised by-law officers not to enter the Demonstration zone unless they are accompanied by a member of the OPS.

24. I am advised by the City's By-law and Regulatory Service that over 2,000 tickets for by-law infractions for the above-noted by-laws have been given out since January 28, 2022, in relation to the Demonstration. Specifically, 1,732 parking tickets have been issued in the Demonstration zone from January 28 to February 10, 2022.

25. In addition to parking tickets issued, the City's Parking Enforcement office has received an increase in calls reporting parking-related offences since January 28, 2022, in the downtown core and surrounding neighbourhoods. Attached as Exhibit "G" is a copy of the by-law call logs for parking offences in the downtown core and surrounding neighbourhoods.

26. The City's by-law enforcement office has received a significant increase in the number of calls reporting by-law violations including idling, noise, use and care of street, and fireworks. Attached as Exhibit "H" is a copy of the by-law call logs for call received in the downtown core and surrounding neighbourhoods since January 28, 2022.

27. A number of the by-law calls included in Exhibit "G" pertain to noise complaints. Attached as Exhibit "I" is a photo taken from CCTV footage at the intersection of Metcalfe Street and Wellington Street on February 10, 2022, showing a stage with large speakers and microphones.

28. In an effort to increase the repercussions to people who wilfully continue to breach the City's by-laws, the City has taken steps to implement stronger enforcement powers. On February

8, 2022, the Ontario Court of Justice issued an Order approving the City's request for an increased set-fine for noise violations, open air fires, and use & care of roads. On February 9, 2022, the Ontario Court of Justice issued an Order approving the City's request for an increased set-fine for idling vehicles.

29. Attached as Exhibit “J” is a copy of the order and schedule of fines for noise violations.
30. Attached as Exhibit “K” is a copy of the order and schedule of fines for open air fires.
31. Attached as Exhibit “L” is a copy of the order and schedule of fines for use & care of roads.
32. Attached as Exhibit “M” is a copy of the order and schedule for fine for idling.
33. Based on my observations of the Demonstration, it does not appear that the increased fines have caused any decrease in the ongoing by-law violations.
34. A number of participants in the Demonstration, have publicly stated that they have no intention of leaving until certain demands are met. Attached at Exhibit “N” and “O” are of news articles with participants stating their intentions.
35. I make this affidavit in support of the City’s application for an injunction pursuant to Section 440 of the Municipal Act, 2001, SO 2001, c. 25 and Rule 40.02 of the Rules of Civil Procedure and for no other or improper service.

SWORN before me at the City of Ottawa, this 13th day of February, 2022 in accordance with O. Reg. 431/20,

Remotely.

Protesters square off with police at Ambassador Bridge, as demonstrations across Ontario continue despite emergency measures

Ottawa police insist they do not have the numbers to take on the protesters.

While protests intensified around the country on Saturday following Ontario's new emergency measures, heavily armed police began clearing the week-long blockade of Canada's busiest commercial route.

The Ambassador Bridge remained closed to the public as of Saturday evening, keeping millions of dollars in commercial goods from flowing through the country as protesters decrying the country's pandemic restrictions squared off with at least six police forces dispatched to Windsor, Ont.

Early Saturday morning, police had successfully removed trucks blocking access to the storied suspension bridge spanning the Detroit River. But by the evening, a crowd of more than 100 protesters had congregated further south on Huron Church Rd. — the eight-lane artery leading to the bridge — keeping the road closed to drivers.

Protesters grew in numbers throughout the day, draped in Canada flags and “F-- You, Trudeau” memorabilia, many of them coming from around Windsor to join the rally. Some carried pro-Donald Trump flags and signs reading “Don’t tread on me,” while others covered their vehicles in handwritten messages disparaging Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and the media.

In a dramatic show of force, several hundred police began moving protesters at 8 a.m. Saturday morning, equipped with armoured vehicles, rifles, tear gas, rubber bullet guns and a military-style tactical unit from the RCMP.

Five public transportation buses were parked behind the line of officers, seemingly there to transport arrested demonstrators, while police drones monitored the crowd from overhead.

In a tweet, Windsor police said they had begun “active enforcement” early in the afternoon, towing and ticketing vehicles.

Jason Bellaire, Windsor’s deputy police chief, said the protest marked the “biggest event I’ve ever dealt with.”

“I’ve never experienced anything like this in my 27 years on the force,” he said.

The seven-day protest shed light on the limited resources available to Windsor police, who scrambled to bring in reinforcements from police in Waterloo, Chatham-Kent and Hamilton ahead of Saturday’s action.

The city’s police also received help from the OPP and RCMP. According to Bellaire, the city borrowed tow trucks from Michigan to help clear vehicles from the bridge’s entrance.

In Ottawa, the crowd of supporters of the so-called “Freedom Convoy” grew from a few hundred during the week to about 1,500 on the third weekend of protests, according to one policing source.

Saturday mid-afternoon, about 500 lingered on the lawn in front of the Peace Tower, where the Centennial Flame has been extinguished since the Friday night when protests began 16 days ago.

Protesters hauled down a protective fence that surrounded the National War Memorial since the first chaotic weekend when protesters urinated at the base of the memorial and danced on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Several including at least three wearing what appeared to be service medals posed for photos, according to video that journalists streamed from the area.

Veterans Affairs Minister Lawrence MacAulay condemned the protesters' actions at the Cenotaph in a statement on Twitter.

"Completely unacceptable. Fences were put up to prevent the flagrant desecration and disrespect of our sacred monuments. This behaviour is disappointing and I'm calling on protesters to respect our monuments."

A counter demonstration organized Saturday saw several hundred residents opposed to the "Freedom Convoy" gather and march several blocks away from downtown Ottawa.

According to video posted Twitter by observers, some carried public service union flags, many chanted "End the occupation now" and "Hey hey, ho ho, fascist convoy's got to go."

Ottawa city councillor Catherine McKenney, who is running for mayor, said the "illegal occupation" is a national crisis with the local police force outnumbered. They said Canada is "complete and utter lawlessness with impunity."

Speaking to CBC, McKenney said the protesters are "making a mockery of us."

They said the protest was "certainly mismanaged from the beginning" but McKenney laid a lot of blame at the foot of other levels of government and policing as well.

Ottawa police "cannot manage what is happening," they said.

"We've been told by the federal government, by the province 'just ask for more resources.' We asked for more resources, we don't get them."

“Whether it’s the OPP coming in or the RCMP coming in, that no longer matters, what we need is, we need a plan for this to end and for it to end soon,” McKenney said.

Ottawa police had not moved to dismantle the downtown encampment on Parliament Hill insisting they do not have the numbers to take on the protesters.

“We have a plan to end this unlawful occupation and await the necessary reinforcements to do so,” the Ottawa police said in a written release Saturday morning.

Overnight, protesters partied on the Hill, blaring horns, blasting tunes over loudspeakers below the Prime Minister’s Office across from the Peace Tower, and moving a large tent structure and a Jumbotron screen onto Wellington Street.

On Saturday morning, television images showed two men soaking in a hot tub on the street facing Parliament, and no sign anyone was intending to leave anytime soon.

Police said that overnight, demonstrators “exhibited aggressive behaviour towards law enforcement including refusing to follow directions, overwhelming officers, and otherwise subverting enforcement efforts.”

Police chief Peter Sloly said the force is focused on neighbourhood safety in the downtown core, but the statement Saturday morning issued shortly after the Ontario cabinet ratified new tougher regulations said enforcement of the new emergency measures “will begin following their formal implementation by the province.”

To date, Ottawa police say they’ve made 26 arrests on criminal charges, and two for public drunkenness, recovered two stolen vehicles “in relation to the occupation,” put three trucks “out of service,” and issued 10 traffic-related charges “including moving violations, document offences, lapsed inspection and daily log infractions.”

Overall, police and bylaw enforcement officers issued more than 2,600 tickets.

They say there are 140 “active criminal” investigations and teams are gathering “financial and digital” information, as well as “vehicle registration, driver identification, insurance status, and other related evidence that will be used in criminal prosecutions.”

Late Saturday the Ottawa police shifted strategies, announcing the set-up of an “integrated command centre” that will now share management of the crisis in Ottawa with the OPP and the RCMP.

In a statement issued, the Ottawa police said it was in “response to a significant influx of demonstrators into the Ottawa area and escalation of the current occupation.”

The force said there were more than 4,000 demonstrators throughout the day.

It said the integrated command centre “will allow us to make the most effective use of the additional resources our policing partners have provided to us.”

The move was seen by sources as one that was necessary before the RCMP and OPP dispatched further reinforcements.

The RCMP in a statement to the Star before the integrated command centre was announced said it “remains fully committed to providing the Ottawa Police Service (OPS) with the support and resources required to ensure the safety and security of residents and visitors in the National Capital Region.”

“The OPS continues to hold the operational lead and jurisdiction in regards to the ongoing demonstrations in Ottawa, and we are working collaboratively with them.”

In Toronto, a copycat convoy appeared to be smaller and calmer than its counterparts elsewhere in the province — and largely devoid of vehicles, due in part to pre-emptive road closures by Toronto Police Service. As a result, traffic has been snarled throughout the city.

Demonstrators, who were mostly peaceful, marched down Yonge Street, many carrying Canadian flags or wearing them draped over their shoulders. There is a heavy police presence in the city and law enforcement has blocked access to a large section of downtown to contain the protest, which is expected to congregate in front of Queen’s Park.

The Gardiner Expressway and Don Valley Parkway, both of which service the downtown core, were partially closed to traffic for roughly two hours Saturday afternoon. Police also temporarily prohibited people from carrying fuel cans in the city centre, citing public safety.

Trudeau and his cabinet’s incident response group met Saturday and were briefed by the RCMP about efforts “to secure ports of entry in Coutts, Alberta, and Emerson, Manitoba” and to stop other blockades from emerging, the PMO said late in the evening.

A readout of the meeting said Trudeau and ministers “discussed further immediate actions the federal government is considering.”

It said protesters would face increasingly severe penalties for breaking the law.

“The Prime Minister stressed that border crossings cannot, and will not, remain closed, and that all options remain on the table,” the statement said. The cabinet group meets again Sunday.

OTTAWA — Organizers of the Freedom Convoy protests are vowing to stay in Ottawa, despite police calls for a “safe exit” following a weekend of demonstrations that shut down the city’s core and sparked anger over the treatment of monuments.

“We are not leaving until all of you and all of your kids are free,” Tamara Lich, one of the organizers, told an enthusiastic crowd gathered on the lawn and streets around Parliament on Sunday. “We’re not leaving until you can open up your business. We’re not leaving until you can hug your best friend. We’re not leaving until you can go see your parents at a long-term care facility.”

Attendance had started to wane in the second day of the protest, down from a raucous peak on Saturday, but still a heavy contingent of protesters and dozens of parked trucks continued to block long stretches of Wellington St., which runs right in front of the parliamentary precinct.

expanded as the convoy moved its way across the country this month, attracting demonstrators outside the trucking industry and taking aim more broadly at vaccines and public health rules.

Despite heavy police presence and public condemnations over racist symbols, the atmosphere on the ground was more like a carnival. People danced, and blew whistles and horns. “I’d rather live on my feet than die on my knees,” read one sign. A man introduced as “Coach Vlad” told the crowd they were all like acorns and could grow into oak trees with deep roots. “Who’s excited to be alive? Who’s excited to be a human? I love you so much, you have no idea, my goodness.”

One protester from Nisku, Alta., in a pickup truck on Wellington, said he planned on staying in Ottawa, “until the job is done.”

No arrests had been reported as of Sunday morning but Ottawa Police said it was investigating the “desecration” of both the National War Memorial and a statue of Terry Fox, as well as “threatening/illegal/intimidating behaviour” to police officers and city workers. One truck flew a Confederate flag Saturday, and Nazi symbols and slogans were seen in the crowds.

On Saturday, a protester was filmed dancing on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and by Sunday morning, reporters were posting photos of urine in the snow at the monument. Politicians also condemned the treatment of a downtown statue of Terry Fox, which for a time held a protest sign, a hat and an upside-down Canadian flag — though by Sunday afternoon only a bouquet of flowers was sitting at the base. A local homeless shelter, Shepherds of Good Hope, said protesters looking for meals were harassing its staff and volunteers on Saturday, to the point that the shelter had to comply as a way to “diffuse the conflict.”

“One member of our shelter community was assaulted by protesters,” the shelter said in a statement. “A security guard went to his aid and was threatened and called racial slurs.”

By Sunday, Shepherds of Good Hope said it was flooded with donations.

As of Sunday afternoon, Ottawa Police was in contact with protest organizers to design an exit strategy for all protesters by the end of the day, according to a spokesperson.

Const. Amy Gagnon said police had already started “facilitating the departure” of people who wanted to leave the gridlocked downtown area.

“We’re planning a safe exit,” she said around 2 p.m. on Sunday. “We’re in continuous talks with them to actually implement their exit for today. So that’s where the discussion is at right now ... That is our current plan. And if the information changes, then we will be adjusting our plan accordingly.”

Convoy organizer and controversial right-wing figure Patrick King says truckers will not be leaving Ottawa this weekend and are planning on staying until all COVID-19 public health measures are eliminated and the Liberal Party is “resigned, gone and abolished.”

“We’re going to stay as long as it takes,” King said during an interview in a downtown Ottawa hotel, wearing a “conspiracy theorist” hat and smoking a cigarette in the lobby.

King burst out laughing when reporters told him Ottawa Police said they are working to get people and vehicles out of downtown by tonight.

“Fake news bud! We’re not going anywhere, and there are more coming,” King said.

“We got contingency plans in place for that,” he later said with a smirk when asked what would happen if police tried to clear them out.

“You pushed the wrong group of people.”

He declined to detail what those plans were, but insisted his group was “non-violent.”

King is a former member of the yellow vest movement who has echoed racist conspiracy theories, such as the notion of “white genocide” theory made popular by white nationalists.

King tried to distance himself from protesters who were seen dancing and even urinating on the National War Memorial Saturday by claiming (without providing any proof) that they were “agitators and provocateurs” placed by the government to “make us look bad.”

King said protesters would be going to the memorial grounds to lay flowers on Sunday evening, and that any remaining money from the truckers’ GoFundMe (which has accrued over $8 million) would be donated to veteran causes.

King also took offence to claims he is “racist and a misogynist and a minority fringe movement.” King has previously argued that Caucasian “Anglo-Saxon people” are being “overrun” and “losing their culture” to “other ethnic religions” in a “genocide.”

“When you go to my Facebook page, and it’s every ethnicity, colour, and race on there,” he said, before warning reporters to “be careful what you print” because he had lawyers watching “every media.”

The organizers of the "Freedom Convoy" have indicated they plan to stay in Ottawa until pandemic-related mandates are repealed, despite more police officers being deployed downtown in anticipation of increased demonstrations over the weekend.

Over the past week, there has been mounting pressure from the city for policing efforts to be ramped up as some business owners say the protesters are doing more harm than good. Convoy organizers are now facing a potential \$9.8 million class-action lawsuit from Ottawa residents angered over incessant horn noise. GoFundMe also announced that it's removing an online "Freedom Convoy" fundraiser for breaking policies on "the promotion of violence and harassment" after it brought in that brought in more than $10 million.

Sarah Chown, managing partner of the downtown restaurant Metropolitain Brasserie and Ottawa chair of the Ontario Hotel and Motel Association, told CTV's Your Morning that her restaurant has been closed since the protesters arrived last weekend.

"We've essentially been closed since they arrived," Chown said Friday. "Unfortunately, our property was completely inaccessible for pickup drivers to come from Uber and DoorDash and other third party services so we weren't even able to operate for takeout on the weekend."

Parts of the convoy arrived in Ottawa last Friday ahead of a big rally on Parliament Hill Saturday in protest of COVID-19 vaccine mandates for truckers and broader public health measures.

Earlier Thursday, some of the main organizers for the "Freedom Convoy" decried that they had been painted as "racists, misogynists...and even terrorists," and that no one from the federal or provincial government had met with them.

Tamara Lich, one of the leaders of the convoy, read a prepared statement "calling on all levels of government to lift all COVID-19 restrictions and mandates," and vowed to stay on until there is a "solid plan" to see action on their demands.

Chown said she appreciates that the protesters are frustrated, but said their actions are hampering businesses and disrupting residents. She said her employees don't feel safe and are now concerned about financially supporting their families without being able to work for a week.

"Unfortunately, your demonstrations currently are not hurting politicians. They're just hurting us -- our small businesses, our employees and the restaurants. It's been a long two years for us, and we need to get back to business and you're not helping us you're hindering us at this point," she said.

An online petition calling on Ottawa police to "evict" the Freedom Convoy from downtown had more than 38,000 signatures as of Friday afternoon.

CONCERNS OVER SAFETY, SECURITY

Ottawa Police Service announced Friday morning that 150 more officers will be deployed in downtown neighbourhoods in a "surge and contain strategy" and will increase enforcement of "all criminal acts related [to] hate, harassment, assaults, intimidation and mischief" through intelligence operations and investigations, including into those who are funding the protests.

"Every unlawful act, including traffic violations, will be fully pursued regardless of origin," police said in a statement, adding that they are "absolutely committed" to bringing the protest to an end.

"The lawlessness must end," Police Chief Peter Sloly said in a press conference.

Police will also utilize concrete and heavy equipment barricades to expand and "harden" the perimeter of the demonstration "red zone."

Ottawa police say they are working with the city to "pull information" together to see whether a court injunction is the right way forward. In addition, police say they are working with the FBI and the United States Department of Homeland Security to investigate online threats from Americans directed at Ottawa.

CTV News has confirmed that Ottawa police have also hired Navigator, an elite and expensive crisis management firm, to help handle the ongoing protest.

In the statement, police warned there will be further disruptions to residents and the organization "continues to strongly urge" protesters to act "lawfully, peacefully and respectfully."

More serious reports of residents being harassed and threatened with rape and violence for wearing masks or being physically assaulted while walking in their neighbourhoods have caused uproar on social media and led to tense questions between city councillors, the police and Ottawa Mayor Jim Watson.

Public safety analyst Chris Lewis told CTV's Your Morning on Friday that it's a "tough balance" for police in ensuring public safety and preventing the protests from escalating.

"Not having it escalate, not having it get violent and not having protesters and or police officers or members of the public hurt is the priority obviously... But there has to be a line there somewhere as to what's allowed and what's not," Lewis said.

He added that the longer protests go on, more arrests will likely have to be made.

Ottawa's police chief said Friday that officers have already arrested one person who brought a firearm to the protest.

When asked whether Friday's measures should have been brought in sooner, Ottawa Deputy Chief Steve Bell said "this is an unprecedented protest" and police responded to the convoy like they would any other protest.

"If we knew it would seep into the neighbourhoods, we would have deployed more resources into those communities," Bell admitted during the press conference.

RCMP TO PROVIDE AID IN OTTAWA

Watson told CTV News Channel on Friday that he welcomed the increase in policing, saying officers need to take a "more aggressive" approach in handling the demonstration by ensuring there are consequences to the protesters' actions.

"These people are not respecting our communities, and they seem to have no respect for fellow human beings honking their horns all hours of the day and night, setting off fireworks, using racist language to people in our community. It's just not accepted and the organizers should be ashamed," Watson said.

Public Safety Minister Marco Mendicino announced late Thursday that the RCMP has approved all requests from the Ottawa Police Service to address the convoy that has taken over the city's downtown core.

Trudeau previously told reporters that he has no plans to call in the military to help Ottawa police contain or disperse the protest.

Speaking with reporters Friday, Mendicino said Ottawa residents "have a right to expect that the law is enforced" and that the increased police presence is "reassuring." Despite this, he says "the prospects for confrontation remain high" in the city.

"We're hearing in Ottawa from people who live here, who work here, who are trying to raise their families, who are trying to get around, is that they can't enjoy those freedoms," he said.

Mendicino said that the federal government has been "very transparent" with Canadians about public health measures, including vaccinations.

"We believe that vaccination is the path out of the pandemic, to lift restrictions, to get back to life as normal. Now, as an individual who lives in a democracy, you're entitled to hold a different view. But what you're not entitled to do is to not follow the law," he said.

- Obscene slogans spotted at trucker convoy sold on Amazon, Facebook

In a statement, the Parliamentary Black Caucus is now calling for MPs and Senators to take a series of steps in response to the protests. This includes: moving to prohibit the public display of the Confederate flag and the swastika, and disclosing information to police and other financial authorities related to the donations the "Freedom Convoy" has received.

The caucus also wants to see a joint House and Senate study and review take place surrounding the convoy, including the role of police and intelligence services.

"We strongly support the right of Canadians to protest. Regrettably, we believe that this protest became a venue for extremist elements to intimidate Members of Parliament, Senators, and the residents of Ottawa and Gatineau," said the group in the statement, calling for immediate federal action on their calls.

MORE PROTESTERS COMING

Police expect 300 to 400 more trucks to arrive in Ottawa this weekend, along with up to 2,000 people on foot and roughly 1,000 counter-protesters, based on intelligence information.

Police are asking the counter-protesters not to come downtown this weekend, saying they don't want that to be another dynamic in the crowd.

A tractor convoy is being planned from Alexandria to Ottawa on Saturday in support of the truckers, according to a Facebook group with more than 1,900 followers.

Ottawa police say they are looking at closing bridges and highway off-ramps, while incoming protest trucks will be directed to designated parking zones outside the downtown core. Illegal parking by demonstrators could result in bylaw enforcement, removal and impound.

Similar convoys are allegedly being planned elsewhere this weekend, including in Toronto and Quebec City. Winnipeg police are also bracing for a demonstration at the Manitoba legislature Friday.

Some Toronto hospitals say they are tightening security around their sites and suggesting that workers wear plain clothes when coming into work this weekend, for fear they may be targeted by protesters.

In Quebec City, protesters are preparing to start demonstrations Friday afternoon in front of the National Assembly, which is being guarded by officers with the Sûreté du Québec.

In anticipation of the protest, heavy equipment barricades were strategically stationed on roads leading to the legislature to prevent trucks from parking in front of the building.

Quebec Premier Francois Legault has said the group has a right to protest as long as it's peaceful, however, there will be zero tolerance for unlawful behaviour.

Speaking during a federal COVID-19 briefing Friday, Health Minister Jean-Yves Duclos sought to remind protesters of recent amendments to the Criminal Code regarding intimidating or obstructing health-care workers and patients from giving or receiving health-care services.

"The House of Commons passed a law just earlier in 2021 putting severe criminal sanctions for those that are intimidating and threatening health care workers," Duclos said when asked about the protests.

"Not only are they looking after thousands of Canadians being hospitalized because of COVID-19, but also looking after many other thousands of Canadians that, every day, require hospitals and other health care services. I would invite all health care workers to report any such incident to their police force.”
